THE FIRST DRAFT

This is an anniversary as proud as any in the history of this community. Britain entered the Great War on August 4, 1914. On August 26, or twenty-two days later, Victoria's first draft of officers and men from local units set forth to join Canada's initial instalment towards the struggle. They went with blithe hearts, some few score strong, many of them never to return. Among their number was Lieutenant Colonel Arthur Currie who was destined to become Commander-in-Chief of the Expeditionary Force and win the honor of knighthood. The memory of these officers and men is kept perpetually alive in the hearts of our people by the Sir James and Lady Douglas Chapter of the Daughters of Empire who have set this day apart as one to be honored by all those who keep their hands on the traditions of the past.

It is an inspiring thought always to recall the manner in which men throughout the Empire and from the uttermost ends of the earth sprang to arms at the call of duty. The Jeremiahs of the present-day, who visualize misfortunes, who damn the organization which society has built up through long ages of evolution and who decry what they term the inability of constituted government to deal with the economic problems of the time, have lost faith in their fellow men. They should cast their minds back a brief seventeen years and remember the faith and fire that is inherent in the race and that burst forth in full bloom and vigor when the trumpet call "to arms" resounded round the earth. Is there any reason to believe that those who passed through and conquered in the Great Adventure are unable to handle the humdrum problems of peace?

The First Draft was the precursor of hundreds upon hundreds who left their peaceful lives in this community to share in the perils and glories on the fields of Flanders and on a score of other battlefronts of the Great War. Thousands of Victorians remember the scenes witnessed at their departure—the pride, the thrills, the patriotic fervor, the grief of relatives at parting with their loved ones. It is a story that can never grow old. Those men of the First Draft and their compatriots, who so speedily afterwards joined the muster roll of the brave, have flung the torch of duty to those who have followed after. In comparison with the dark days of the Great War the present time is full of light and laughter. Men never despair in August, 1914, or throughout the four bloody years that succeeded. They "went to their work" and were strong, halting not in their ways. That is the inspiration for these times—the memory of the answer to the call to duty in 1914. As W. E. Henley wrote:

"And the shadow of her flag when it shouts to the mother breeze,
Flaunts from shore to shore of the universal seas.
Who says that we shall pass, or the fame of us fade or die,
While the living stars fulfil their round in the living sky?
For the sire lives in his sons, and they pay their father's debt,
And the Lion has left a whelp wherever his claw was set;
And the Lion in his whelps, his whelps that none shall brave,
Is but less strong than Time and the great all-whelming Grave."

BRITAIN'S NEW CABINET

The Coalition Government in Britain, headed by Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, has a personnel which, if not so strong as it might have been considering the comparative calibre of several members of Parliament whose claims to office have been overlooked, is strong enough to inspire a good deal of confidence in the country. Mr. Stanley Baldwin has no active portfolio. He will act as President of the Council, and it may be assumed that he chose this office himself in collaboration with the Prime Minister, who was so anxious to secure his aid in the crisis. Mr. Baldwin will serve in the Cabinet wholeheartedly and without an idea of forwarding party motives. The probability is that men who are above party were given first consideration when the choice was made, and that Mr. Baldwin chose those from among the Conservatives who would be least likely to take any advantage from the situation that has arisen.

Inasmuch as it is a budget deficit that is at issue and the necessity exists of adopting drastic measures to meet the situation, there will be a good deal of surprise that Mr. Philip Snowden has been continued in the office of Chancellor of the Exchequer. There are probably reasons for this step that are not apparent. Mr. Snowden is a dour politician, cold and calculating in his relations to other men, and only warm in his socialist beliefs. The latter can hardly be given play in a Coalition Cabinet. The choice of a Foreign Secretary is an excellent one. Earl Reading is not only a man of high intellect and wide experience, but it is felt that he will be a powerful figure in the coming Round Table Conference on Indian Affairs, especially when invested with the authority of the Foreign Office. His Lordship is not one of those Liberals, who have been identified with the die-hard policies of Mr. Lloyd George. He is broad-minded, with a statesmanlike outlook which should serve the Cabinet, of which he is now a member, in good stead.

It was a foregone conclusion that Mr. J. H. Thomas would be a member of the new Government. He is the most popular of all the Labor leaders, and his popularity extends to all parties. He is loyal to itself in his adhesion to the political courses which Mr. Ramsay MacDonald has outlined during the term of the latter's leadership. He has subscribed to the idea of Coalition when several of his former colleagues opposed such a move. He failed as Minister of Unemployment, but in the Cabinet post in which he has been continued under the new dispensation, he has not failed; in fact, in most respects, he has a better record than any of the other members of the former Labor Government.

One choice that will be hailed with satisfaction by all who have the best interests of the British Empire at heart is that of Sir Austen Chamberlain as First Lord of the Admiralty. There is no doubt about Sir Austen's appreciation of the Empire's needs in the matter of national security. He may not, in an emergency Cabinet, have either scope or opportunity for filling up the gaps in the Royal Navy which have been developing during the past few years, but at least he will impress on the Cabinet the desirability of a reform in those methods which have neglected the replacements in ships which are permitted under the London Treaty. His brother, Sir Neville Chamberlain, is Minister of Health, a department in which there have been large and growing expenditures under the Labor Administration. It will be one of Sir Neville's duties to point out where economies can be effected in the philanthropic work in which the Ramsay MacDonald Labor Cabinet ran riot.

Another department in which large economies are recommended by the Macmillan Committee is that of Education, now presided over by Sir Donald Maclean, a Liberal. Sir Donald is a keen student of educational problems, on which he has spoken often in Parliament. The choice is a good one, for he has sound views on the course and the cost of education. It is significant that a Conservative, Sir Henry Betterson, should have been chosen for the Department of Labor. In having adopted this course there is an evidence of the single-heartedness of the Prime Minister in his desire to meet the issue that has arisen. Lord Sankey continues as Lord Chancellor, and an important portfolio, that of Home Secretary, has been given to Sir Herbert Samuel, who was Mr. Lloyd George's chief lieutenant in the negotiations carried on with Mr. Ramsay MacDonald and his former Ministers. Sir Samuel Hoare, a Conservative, is Secretary for India, and Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister is President of the Board of Trade, an office for which he is well fitted by previous experience.

There is much speculation about the political future of Mr. Ramsay MacDonald now that, in a time of national emergency, he has thrown so many of his former colleagues overboard, success which attends the Coalition Government. Undoubtedly, a party will arise in Parliament that will oppose all the actions of the Coalition Ministry, but the vast bulk of the members will endorse the legislation to be devised to meet the financial issue. The Prime Minister can have no cause for regrets in sacrificing party for the nation. The people of Britain will be proportionately grateful, and it matters but little what attitude is assumed by the Trades Union Congress. One thing is certain, namely, that Mr. MacDonald can rest assured of greater and better informed support from his new Ministry than any he has received from his colleagues of the past. The duty lying before the Cabinet transcends party considerations, and the Cabinet all Laborites understand this the better it will be for their political fortunes in the years to come.

In order to compete with tinned salmon from this continent Russian firms exporting the product to Britain are putting the tin in wrappers similar to those on the Canadian commodity. Their brand is known as Socra, which is Arcos spelled backwards. The price for a fifteen and a half ounce tin is 4½d.

A CODE IN PRAYER

When shadows fall around my soul,
And round me day-dreams tumble;
When through a veil of bitter tears,
I see my earlier crumblings;
When Fate has dealt a master-stroke
To quell all hope within me,
When friends desert me right and left
And sorrow seeks to win me,
When work I've given all my life
To see complete and gleaming
Is ruined by a spiteful hand,
And left me hopeless dreaming;
O God, may never faith give out—
May never courage fall—
Give me the strength to fight it through;
To fight and never quail;
O God, when everything seems ended,
When life stretches mile on mile—
Let me weave again the fragments—
Let me still show life a smile!

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

Breathes there a man with soul so dead,
Who never to himself hath said,
This is my own, my native land;
Whose heart hath never within him burned,
As home his footsteps he hies to guard,
From wandering on a foreign strand?
If such there breathe, go, mark him well,
How well he fits the title, "Hell."
Hush! through his brain his thoughts are passing,
Of the great world whose pains of great change,
Through souls that pass, shall come his passion,
And, doubly dying, shall go down
To the vile dust from whence he sprung,
Unwept, unhonored and unsung.

Winston Churchill may not be as shrewd a man as George Bernard Shaw, but intellectually Churchill is not inferior to Shaw, and there is a downright honesty in the sayings and purposes of Churchill which are not apparent in the activities of Shaw. Winston Churchill has been criticized by the brilliant gentlemen of the press for his critical references to the visit of Lady Astor and George Bernard Shaw to the land of the Soviets and for the predictions they have made as to the future of the system of government and economics which has been set up in Russia. Winston Churchill has been accused of a childish inclination to "call names" because he has said that Shaw has proved himself to be an intellectual clown or mountebank, or something of that kind.

If we are to believe what other people have said of Shaw, Churchill merely said something which other people had frequently said before. The Churchill criticism was published—and more admired than criticized. When he returned from Russia Shaw issued a statement declaring that the Russian system of government and economics was sure to be a success because it was based on the principles of Fabian Socialism. Now the system of Fabian Socialism was established by George Bernard Shaw, and the egotism of Shaw was further demonstrated by the assumption that anything which proceeded from the brains of Shaw simply could not be anything but a success. So Shaw told the world that Sovietism in Russia was not only going to be a success in Russia but it was bound to take root in all parts of the earth and be a pronounced success there.

The question may be asked, who are these famous Fabians and where were their pregnant principles established? There is a club in London known as the Fabians. We do not know whether the famous club was established by George Bernard Shaw, but we do know that for many years George Bernard Shaw has been its intellectual organ. The club is very exclusive. No one is admitted to membership who "has not arrived" in a literary or philosophical sense. All the brilliant literary lights of London and the provinces gather there for the purpose of having their flickering lamps trimmed by George Bernard Shaw, the most brilliant luminary of them all. The result is manifest in all the books written by such men as Galsworthy (a greater creative artist than the oracle himself), Bennett, Belloc, and dozens of the lesser lights of literature. The mission of the Fabians was to establish a new political and social system and banish the weakness they called sentiment from the affairs of men and nations.

The principles of Fabianism or Fabianism spread until they began to affect even the lowly newspaper men. We believe it was in the Fabian Club that Mr. Ramsay MacDonald's education was finished off and polished up. But for the campaign conducted by the newspapers of London against the government of Mr. Baldwin the people of Great Britain would never have been afflicted by a Socialist government led by Mr. MacDonald. Anyhow, if Fabian Socialism is going to be a permanent success in Russia, Fabian Socialism has proved a disastrous failure in Great Britain. A few years more of Fabian Socialism and not only the political structure of Great Britain but the social and business structure of the British nation, and possibly of the British Empire, would have lain in ruins.

So a national government is about to be formed for the purpose of saving the country from the natural and inevitable consequences of the impractical idealism, or rather the fanatical crankiness, of Fabianism and Socialism. But we suppose that so kings in the old days had to have their jesters for the purpose of creating merriment, we assume that uncrowned but triumphant democracy must have its clowns to amuse it with their wit and satire. During the period of political delusion Winston Churchill saw more clearly than most of his contemporaries the inevitable result of the daring experiment in Fabian Socialism or Shavian Socialism. He had the courage and the capacity for warning the country of the consequences of putting the MacDonald government in power and keeping it in long after those consequences became apparent to all eyes except those who would not see. Churchill has been accused of criticizing too bluntly and of "calling names," but he said nothing which was not warranted by the disquieting circumstances. George Bernard Shaw has lived in England for many years and has become wealthy by reviling the country and the people of the country. Most of Shaw's money has been made by selling his literary products to the people of nations who are envious of the position of England among the nations and would be delighted if the Power which for generations has been the greatest of the Powers were reduced from her high position. Winston Churchill is a patriot. He would have been justified if he had described George Bernard Shaw as an ungrateful renegade.

TO THE FIRST DRAFT

Just sprig 'o' Island heather,
Such as they wore that sad day
When they broke each tie and leather,
And so bravely marched away.
To their ears the ringing "Rally!"
Was command and argument,
Bargaining not, they did not dally;
Swift to answer, quick they went.
Fighting, suffering, conqu'ring, dying,
With the best the Maple gave;
Each with each in valor dying,
They found glory—and the grave.
Ypres and Dickebusche both knew them,
And the mud-fled, blood-red
Somme;
Festivals could not undo them—
Countless battles "sans le nom."
Each took toll of their slim numbers (Naught their courage could abridge)
And it flamed amid the thunders
On the heights of Vimy Ridge.
Few are left that wore the heather
Such a brief, short time ago;
But, that they fought true, together,
Holding Honor high, we know!
Not in sorrow, but with gladness—
With the joy that pride imparts;
But, with just a touch of sadness,
We wear their badge above our hearts.

ESQUIMALT-GORGE CANAL

Sir,—May I be permitted a few lines to offer a suggestion re the investing of relief funds for the unemployed workmen in a way that would be a lasting advantage and delight to our city, and one that would create a permanent impression of the charm of our boating and canoeing facilities. The upper Gorge waters are but a few hundred yards across from the Esquimalt Harbor. In driving a canal through this narrow neck of land the cost would be practically nil for labor making work for many unemployed. This work would give the greatest results. The Gorge waters would be washed out and cleaned at least once during every twenty-four hours by each incoming and outgoing tide, making this waterway and surrounding the very finest water playground for ages to come and one of the greatest benefits the city of Victoria could ever expect. It would be a great asset for water sport, boating, canoeing, swimming, fishing and picnicking.

UNEMPLOYMENT RELIEF

Sir,—I feel so strongly sympathetic for the terrible suffering caused by unemployment, that I am going to make an appeal which I am hoping may reach the hearts of some people and perhaps help to give some poor creature, either man, woman or child, a few good meals.
My suggestion is this. Will all good people, who are indulging in cigarette smoking, give up smoking, for, say, two weeks, or better still, one month, and give what it would cost them to the cause of the hungry and suffering poor. I am not speaking so much of the workers, who perhaps need this little comfort and pick-me-up, but to the society people, men and women, who smoke them by the package. It might mean a little sacrifice, but I believe they themselves would be benefited, both in body and mind, with the knowledge of a good deed well done, and that someone has had some of the necessities of life.
If it is no use trying to harden oneself by saying, "Oh! lots of them have been offered work, and won't work." There may be one or two such cases, but we do know that there are thousands—I think there are between 13,000 and 14,000, at latest reports, out of work, that are deserving of help. A few hours of work would also do them good.

FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY

(From The Daily British Colonist of August 26, 1881.)

Disaster in Victoria—The steamer Victoria, laden with coal, while working her way down the Strait of Juan de Fuca on Thursday morning, in a dense fog, ran ashore just inside Puffin Point on a sandy beach. The steamer thus heard the end of the Victoria during the heavy fog and following the sound, found the Victoria on the beach. The steamer waited to receive any assistance necessary, but at 4:30 p.m. the Victoria managed to get off without any assistance and proceeded on her way to San Francisco.

Disturbance Arrived—The steamer George E. Starr brought over yesterday His Grace Archbishop Bathers, Bishop Brondell and Father Jonckas, from Portland, Oregon. All the Roman Catholic priests met them on the pier at the arrival of the steamer and accompanied them to the Bishop's Palace, St. Boniface. His Grace had come on a visit to the steamer and to the friends in this province, who will be delighted to congratulate him on the recent mark of high esteem that has been bestowed upon him by the Pontiff.

Arrival of a Russian Man-of-War—The Russian steamship Africa arrived in Esquimalt harbor last evening at 8 o'clock, thirty-three days from Petrograd. She is probably the fastest foreign warship that ever came ashore in these waters, being about 300 feet in length and is capable of steaming fifteen knots an hour, and fully equipped with every modern appliance pertaining to a first-class vessel of war.

Numerous Organizations Are Represented at Funeral of James Hunter

A big congregation including many of the intimate family friends as well as representatives of the numerous service clubs and other organizations with which James Hunter was associated, attended the funeral services held for him at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church yesterday afternoon. British Columbia Government Sends Good Will Message

HANDS stretched out across the sea yesterday in a good will gesture from the Premier of the Province of British Columbia to Right Hon. Stanley Baldwin, leader of the Conservative party in Great Britain, on the occasion of the formation of a National Government to carry on the affairs of the Empire Parliament.

Premier Tolmie sent the following cablegram: "Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, London, England. 'I desire to express on behalf of the Government of British Columbia our deep appreciation of your splendid action in co-operating with other leaders in an effort to bring about a solution of the present situation in Great Britain. We desire to express our best wishes for your success.'" notice she had heard in the living room.

Dr. R. L. Miller was called and pronounced life extinct. The Oak Bay police and coroner E. C. Hart were notified, but no inquest will be held.

Mr. Stephen was born in England but went to the United States at the age of eighteen. He made the trek west with one of the covered wagon caravans, and took part in many a campaign against marauding Indians. He lived the life of a pioneer for many years, and witnessed the mushroom growth of the Western states.

RETURNED TO ENGLAND

When Britain declared war on Germany in August, 1914, he immediately sold his dwelling in England, having charge of airplane deliveries to points of shipment.

At the conclusion of the war he returned to the United States and made his home in California, where he resided for nine years. Three years ago he came to Victoria to retire.

His nearest and only relative is Captain W. Stephen, of Calgary. His wife preceded him in death only a month ago. The remains have been taken to Hayward's B.C. Funeral Parlors. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

ESTIMATES LESS FRUIT FOR 1931

Revised Figures From Department of Agriculture Show Decrease in Output From 1930

Revised estimates of the 1931 fruit crop of the Okanagan district indicate a general reduction in all lines of fruit produced. The 1931 crop of apples will probably yield 3,088,425 boxes, as against 4,147,426 last year. Pears are expected to yield 134,750 crates, as compared with 142,682 in 1930; plums 65,400, against 70,958 last year; and prunes 132,500, compared with 151,678 in 1930.

The figures given yesterday by the Provincial Department of Agriculture indicate that the reduction all over the district was yesterday was fairly evenly distributed all over the district. The Creston Valley apple estimate is 118,000 boxes, as compared with 145,731 last season. Grand Forks district estimates are given as 81,200, as against 49,329 in 1930. The Kootenay and Arrow Lakes areas will produce around 92,000 boxes this year, as compared with 78,492 last year.

Vancouver Island and the Gulf Islands also show an increase for this year, with an estimated crop of 38,000 boxes, against 28,284 in 1930. The apple crop estimates show an increase in most cases over last year with the exception of Creston Valley.

The weather in all districts continues warm and dry, the report stated.

Lindbergh on their expected arrival tomorrow afternoon from Nemo, after a flight of 7,132 miles from New York. The Lindberghs, accompanied by the party of United States Ambassador W. Cameron Forbes, are expected to arrive at the Ueno Railway Station in Tokio about 4:30 o'clock. Wednesday afternoon they will make the ninety-minute journey from the Kaumakura naval landing field in a special coach.

CLOSELY GUARDED

At the Ueno Station 120 policemen will be assigned to preserve order in the huge crowds which are expected to assemble along the two-and-a-half-mile route to the home of Dr. R. B. Teusler, director of St. Luke's Hospital, where the Lindberghs will stay. 500 policemen will line both sides of the streets. Police will guard the Teusler house during the flyers' stay here.

PLENTY PICTURES

Along the Ginza, meaning "Silver" Street, which is Tokio's chief shopping thoroughfare, the stores are lined up with one another to make the greatest showing. There are photographic displays of the Lindberghs galore. One place featured pictures of them from childhood up, including photographs made yesterday at Nemo and rushed here by relays of planes.

INDUSTRY AHEAD OF AGRICULTURE

Law Dean of McGill Sees Mining Development as Means to Restore Balance

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Aug. 25.—Members of the Institute of Politics today heard Professor P. E. Corbridge, dean of the law faculty of McGill University, say that in Canada and Australia industrial development has gone far ahead of agriculture, with the result that "open spaces" cannot support the vast agrarian population except with high protection at home and preference abroad, he said.

"The present hope in Canada, he said, is that balance between industry and agriculture may be achieved in some measure by the rapid opening up of mining fields "which are astonishing Canadians and the rest of the world by their unexpected richness."

CANADIAN SCOTTISH TO BE REPRESENTED AT BANFF GATHERING

Pipe Sergeant Donald Cameron, 2nd Battalion, Canadian Scottish Regiment, left yesterday for Banff, where he will represent the regiment in the fifth annual Highland gathering, to be held August 27 to 30. One of the major events in which Sgt. Cameron will participate will be the competition for the handsome trophy presented by E. W. Beatty, K.C., to the best pipe band among the Canadian Highland units.

He will also compete for a similar award given to the premier piper of the entire Canadian Militia. This was won last year by Pipe-Sergeant John McFarlane, of Windsor. Numerous other cups and cash prizes are open to all comers.

Pipe-Sergeant Cameron is especially qualified to represent the Canadian Scottish in this important event, having been an active member of the militia pipe band since the inauguration of the old 50th Gordons in pre-war days. He is now in charge of the pipe band of the 2nd Battalion Canadian Scottish Regiment, the youngest pipe band in Canada.

FUND TO CLOSE SEPTEMBER 15

Drive to Obtain $250,000 for Relief Will Be Short but Intensive Increased effort will be made to secure $250,000 for the Victoria Citizens' Unemployed Fund. The effort will end September 15, whatever the total may be on that date, according to a decision reached by the committee.

"Unanimous support by the Chamber of Commerce of a resolution, introduced by J. O. Cameron, to endorse the work of the citizens' committee, brings much needed assistance," said Landsberg, campaign manager, states.

"The importance of this decision is obvious when we realize that simple endorsement was considered the original and the most important step in the campaign to include a promise of active support to the fullest extent. With Victoria's business men putting energy and determination into the campaign, success is certain."

"The executive committee will meet at an early date to perfect plans for a more intensive campaign, with participation by the Chamber of Commerce makes possible. Unemployed citizens will be precluded the support which is assured by the business section of the city," Mr. Landsberg concluded.

Canvassers are required. Anyone willing to assist is asked to call at headquarters, View and Broad Streets, or telephone Garden 1725. Contributions may be left at that office or with the treasurer, E. C. Smith, City Hall.

NO OPPOSITION TO CONSERVATIVE

Charles Rhys Returned for Guildford—Liberal Shows Willingness to Co-operate

LONDON, Aug. 25 (CP).—Charles Rhys, Conservative, was elected unopposed today as member of the House of Commons for Guildford, Surrey. He succeeds Sir Henry Buckle, Conservative member of the division since 1922, who died recently.

Mr. Rhys' election came about through the withdrawal last night of the Liberal candidate, Stophord Brooke, who dropped out in order to facilitate the election of his opponent as an expression of the willingness of Liberals to co-operate with other parties during the present emergency.

Mr. Rhys is a governor of the National Museum of Wales, and was private secretary to Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, 1927-29.

SCHOOLS READY FOR FALL TERM

Six Thousand Students Return to Studies Sept. 1—Board Meets Tonight

Six thousand boys and girls will return to school on Tuesday, September 1. The City School Board tonight will hold a meeting to make final appointments to the teaching staff and round out the curricula. Much has already been accomplished in preparing the various schools for the invasion of students after two months' vacation. All buildings have been thoroughly cleaned, and floors oiled. Plastering has been done where needed, while more space has been provided where congestion has been reported.

As a result of this summer's overhaul, the technical class at the High School will have more commodious accommodation at the Boys' Central School. The technical rooms have been enlarged by wrecking one wall and rebuilding.

At the North Ward School the manual training department has been removed to the Kings Road section of the school, thus releasing the entire third floor for other purposes.

Only two more appointments will be made to the teaching staff. These appointments only affect the elementary grades. The High School staff remains practically the same as last year. Only one new appointment was made, while the Victoria College faculty is unchanged from the last term.

GREAT ACTIVITY AT FAIRGROUNDS

Officials Preparing for Opening of Annual Exhibition at the Willows Next Monday

A steady stream of automobile trucks to the fair buildings, where gangs of workmen are putting things in readiness for the opening of the Victoria Fall Fair next Monday, mark the preparation for the seventh annual exhibition of the British Columbia Agricultural Association.

Secretary W. H. Means again appeals to exhibitors to take full advantage of the opening of the exhibits complete for the crowds which will pass through the gates on the opening day. In this connection, it is pointed out, there will be more visitors every day of the fair this year, with over $14,000 in prizes, represented by four automobiles, one of which is valued at $5,000, offered in connection with the ticket-selling campaign. It has been assured that the crowds that will flock through the gates will exceed previous years.

The numerous entries in virtually every class of the show, the exhibits of the Dominion and Provincial Governments, the magnificent cattle entry, including the stock of the Prince of Wales' ranch at High River, the four big district exhibits, the

FISH PRICE
TAKES JUMPKeen Bidding for Choice
Sockeye Is Good Business for Fishermen

NEW WESTMINSTER, Aug. 25 (CP).—Following an increase in price from 27½ cents to as high as 52½ cents per fish, Fraser River sockeye fishermen are out in full strength, operating over 700 boats for sockeye. Keen bidding between canneries for choice sockeye resulted in price increases, it is stated. Independent canners felt they were not getting a fair share of fish caught, and raised the price.

Sockeye, this time last year, brought 60 cents. While the large run in the Fraser River has not yet started, large numbers of fish have arrived in the Gulf at the Fraser River mouth. Seven canneries have started operations; three on the Fraser River and four in Vancouver. Fraser River sockeye pack to date is 25,000 cases, approximately the same as this time a year ago. Some of the fishermen operating in the Gulf have made as high as $50 a day, it is reported. The run of chums, cohoes and pinks is increasing.

Up to August 15, 1931, the total pack from Fraser River is 38,575 cases, compared with 77,612 at the same date last year. While there is a good run of spring fish, prices are poor.

The average life of automobiles in Great Britain is seven and three-quarter years.

VANCOUVER, Aug. 25 (CP).—The marine inquiry into the accident to the Canadian National steamer Prince Rupert and Prince David will commence at 11 o'clock on Wednesday morning in the courthouse. A number of witnesses have been summoned by Captain J. D. MacPherson, wreck commissioner, and the first inquiry will deal with the sinking of the Prince Rupert at Esquimalt last Spring.

Up to August 15, 1931, the total pack from Fraser River is 38,575 cases, compared with 77,612 at the same date last year. While there is a good run of spring fish, prices are poor.

The average life of automobiles in Great Britain is seven and three-quarter years.

Grounded When Out of Control in Bay

VINEYARD HAVEN, Mass., Aug. 25 (AP).—The New Bedford passenger steamer Naushon, which was driven aground by a high wind yesterday, was refloated today, apparently undamaged. The coasting schooner Alice Wentworth, which was carried ashore by the Naushon when she became unmanageable also was pulled off.

The twenty-five passengers of the Naushon, which was bound into Vineyard Haven from New Bedford, had been taken ashore in the steamers' lifeboats. The crew remained aboard.

A heavy northeast squall blew into the harbor as the Naushon was slowing down to dock late last night. The steamer went out of control and the full blast of wind drove her onto the harbor's sandy bottom. The Naushon registered 996 tons.

LANDINGS CAUSE
OF DISCUSSIONSAction of Flyers Alighting in Unauthorized Places Open to Criticism

TOKIO, Aug. 25 (AP).—Forced landings recently by Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh in prohibited areas of the Kurile Islands, caused reports yesterday that the Japanese Government's suspicions had been aroused, but high officials quickly repudiated the stories.

They said it was natural three unannounced landings in the Kuriles by the famous American flyers should cause discussion. Aware of the dense fog along the volcanic group which twice cut short the attempted trans-Pacific flight of the Japanese flyer, Seiji Yoshikawa, official spokesman, disapproved of the Lindberghs alighting in unauthorized places.

TODAY'S RECIPE

PEACH Marmalade

Pare, stone and weigh fruit. Heat slowly to bring at the juice, stirring often. After it is hot, boil quickly, still stirring, for three-quarters of an hour. Then add the sugar, allowing three-quarters of a pound to each pound of fruit. Boil up well for five minutes, taking off all the scum. Add the juice of a lemon to every three pounds of fruit and the water in which one-quarter of the kernels of the peaches have been cooked. Stew all together for ten minutes, stirring to a smooth paste. (A large pineapple cut up and added to the peaches gives a fine flavor.)—Prudence.

Classiest Bunch of Thoroughbreds for Many Years Will Compete at Willows and Colwood Tracks—Wahmonie to Be Sent

With the finest aggregation of thoroughbreds that have yet been shipped to Victoria for the opening of the racing season, the racing officials are preparing for one of the most successful seven-day meetings that has yet been scheduled on any local track.

Approximately 250 horses are already stabled at either Colwood or the Willows, and with additional shipments coming from the Mainland today, it is practically certain that close to 400 head will be eligible to start in the various events.

Heading the list is the famous Wahmonie, from the A.C.T. stock farm, owned by Major Austin Taylor, the noted British Columbia sportsman. Wahmonie is undoubtedly the all-star attraction from a public viewpoint that has raced around the circuit during the summer months. Packing top weight in most of his races, he shattered records of long standing and decisively defeated the fastest racers the East had available to compete during the Western meetings.

Wahmonie has not been shipped from Vancouver yet, but Major Taylor will send his string along about Thursday, and intends to start at least two of them in the big Colwood Handicap, September 14, at the mile track.

THREE GREAT TURF CHAMPS WILL CLASH

Sun Beau, Mate and Twenty Grand to Race on September 5

KILMER'S STAR TO CARRY 126 POUNDS

NEW YORK, Aug. 25 (AP).—The question of the supremacy of the turf is slated to be settled on September 5 at Saratoga Springs, when Sun Beau, the world's leading money winner, and Mate and Twenty Grand, the two ranking three-year-olds of the year, clash in the fifty-first running of the Saratoga Cup.

The mile and six furlongs test over the Spa oval will carry more honor than riches, but it should furnish a definite line on the three outstanding horses of the year. Mate and Twenty Grand, which have met in a trio of three-year-old specials, will have an eight-pound pull in weights, but Sun Beau, offtimes, has proved that he can carry plenty of pounds. Under the weight for age clause, Sun Beau will pack 126 pounds, while Mate and Twenty Grand will carry 118 pounds each.

KILMER AFTER GLORY

Willis Sharpe Kilmer, owner of Sun Beau, has a special desire to see his six-year-old campaigner, winner of more than $322,000, gallop down past the judges' stand in front of the two three-year-olds and any other horses that may decide to test the big three. Exterminator, one of the mightiest of turf history, won the event four straight years for the Binghamton, N.Y., sportsman.

In addition to attempting to defeat Sun Beau, Twenty Grand will be endeavoring to even matters with Mate, his rival of the three-year-old division. The two met in the Freekness, with Mate getting the decision. A return engagement a week later in the Kentucky Derby saw Twenty Grand reverse the decision, but when they met for the third time in the Arlington classic, Mate was much the better.

Entries for City Golf Meet Will Close Friday

WITH close to fifty entries already in the hands of the officials, one of the largest and most select fields in the history of the meet is expected to face the starter in the annual city golf championship, which will get under way at the Royal Colwood Golf and Country Club, Sunday, with the thirty-six-hole qualifying round. Entries will close Friday evening. Members of the various local clubs wishing to enter are asked to send their forms to Captain Walter Parry, secretary of the Colwood club. Match play will commence September 5 and the champion of the year will be named two days later. Whether or not Harold Brynjolfsson, Uplands club, will defend his title is not yet known, as he expects to leave for the Mainland shortly.

MAINLANDERS TAKE SECOND TUSSLE OF PLAY-OFFS 6 TO 2

Begbie, Carter & White Nine Tie Up Important Series Against Locals Under Flood Lights—Knock Webster From Mound in Four Frames—Elks' Rally in Eighth Nipped

Third and Deciding Game Will Be Played at Vancouver Park Tonight

VANCOUVER, B.C., Aug. 25.—Vigorous use of their bludgeons in the early rounds enabled Stan Carter's Begbie, Carter & White Terminal Leaguers to even up the series with Victoria Elks in the provincial baseball play-offs, when they took the measure of the visitors, 6-2, at the Athletic Park tonight in the second game of the series.

Webster's slants did not prove any puzzle to the local diamond performers. They slammed his offerings for ten hits before he was forced to retire when he injured his hand in the fifth. Noble, who finished up, pitched cleverly and only allowed one more run.

Outside of a little wildness, Helmer had the sign of the Elks most of the way. He held them to two bingles to the sixth, when they scored their first tally as the result of an error and Bowden's timely blow. They got their final tally in the eighth on another miscue and hits by Bowden and Dunn.

It was the first game under the floodlights by both teams, and Victoria complained about finding it rather strange to them. Elks only made one mistake in the field, but the locals had four boos, two of them costing runs.

Begbie did some hard clouting in the first three frames to get four runs, which included doubles by McKissock, Stewart and Fairbairn. Stewart had a good night with the willow, with three solid blows. Holman was the only Elks to get more than one safe hit. Bill Kay, Scott, Fairbairn and Yasul also connected for two bingles each.

Elks threatened in the eighth, but a sparkling throw from left field by Fairbairn nipped their rally when Bowden was caught at the plate.

Third and final contest between Begbie, Carter & White and Victoria Elks, to decide which team enters the second round of the Senior "A" provincial baseball playoffs, is set for Athletic Park tomorrow afternoon.

BANTAM KING HOLDS CROWN

Panama Al Brown Retains Title by Taking Decision Over Pete Sanstol

THRILLING FIGHT FROM FIRST GONG

By WALLACE H. WARD
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 25.—The long black arms of Alphonse Brown of New Bedford, Mass., retained the world bantamweight crown for the dusky Panamanian by taking a fifth fifteen rounds of rugged fighting.

The rapier thrusts of his deadly arms effectively turned back the assault of Pete Sanstol, of Norway, made on the title.

Sanstol surprised fight fans with the plucky showing he made against the taller and more experienced fighter. Sanstol stayed the entire route, despite the pre-fight foreboding, and gave a good account of himself.

Thomas Murphy, president of the Canadian Boxing Federation, cast his vote for Brown, as did the referee, General John V. Clinlin, president of the National Boxing Association. Dr. G. L. Demers, chairman of the Montreal Commission, cast the only ballot for Sanstol.

The Canadian Press scorer gave Brown seven rounds, Sanstol five, with three rounds a draw.

Far from being one-sided, the title bout was a thrill-packed battle from beginning to end.

ENGLAND'S OLDEST WOMAN

Mrs. Roff, of Plymouth, who recently celebrated her 107th birthday, is believed to be the oldest woman in Great Britain. Born when George IV was on the throne, she has lived in five reigns. William IV, Queen Victoria, Edward VII and George V. Her faculties are good, and although she spends most of her time in bed, she is able to sit in a chair several hours each day. She lived many years in London, where her husband was a wharf owner. Her grandson, Lieutenant-Colonel Frank Phillips, is a partner in a firm of shipping agents.

KRAZY KAT

BONZO - - - - By Studdy

"Listen, dear, this is Moscow." "Wonderful, George! But it's not very clear, is it? There seems to be a awful lot of cracking going on." "Oh, you always get that with this station. You see, they keep on shooting the announcers and artists!" —The Humorist, London.

RANK AND FILE

Just as the military has not hesitated to borrow from everyday usage words and expressions which were particularly apt for their needs, so business and politics have reciprocated by taking from the military words or groups of which, because of their aptness, just suited their purpose. Such a phrase is "rank and file," applied to members of no official standing in any organization. In Samarkand, capital of Southwestern Asia, Soviet engineers are completing a gigantic plant to harness the sun's power. Both hot water and electricity will be supplied to industrial plants by this solar power station. When the sun is shining the rays will be used to heat water. The steam will operate turbines and the rest of the hot water will serve various industrial purposes. Heat reservoirs for the storing of the power when the sun is not shining will be a notable feature of the central part of the two-story plant. A still larger plant will be built if the first one proves a success.

RUTH CHATTERTON STARS IN DRAMA

Screen Favorite Attains New Heights in "The Magnificent Lie" at Dominion

Ruth Chatterton, who has contributed at least four of the outstanding screen dramas of the past two years, comes to the fore again with a picture that rivals for dramatic greatness "Sarah and Son," "Anybody's Woman," "The Right to Love" or "Unfaithful." It is "The Magnificent Lie," now showing at the Dominion Theatre.

Each of Miss Chatterton's characterizations has demanded the uti-mate in acting talent from the distinguished actress, but none called for such a complete newness of spirit and tempo as does "The Magnificent Lie." Miss Chatterton sings one song in the development of the story.

The picture, which was directed by the celebrated European stage director and playwright, Berthold Viertel, includes in its cast Stuart Erwin, playing his first dramatic role; Sam Hardy, and a pair of players popular on the Parisian stage, Francoise Rosay and Charles Boyer.

COLUMBIA It was as a laughing THEATRE villain that George Bancroft first achieved fame in the movies. The picture which brought him the greatest early renown in this type of characterization was "The Pony Express." The talkies have enhanced the value of this merry-roar manner. George Bancroft is now appearing in "Scandal Sheet" at the Columbia Theatre.

COLISEUM "Plunder," the British THEATRE picture featuring Ralph Lynn and Tom Walls, stirred the Imperial Conference delegates to laughter at the gala performance held in London. They thoroughly enjoyed this representative British farce, now showing at the Coliseum Theatre. "Plunder" is the Ben Travers Aldwych farce in picture form and is a merry-maker from beginning to end.

PRICES DROP AT AUCTION

Vessels Sold at Less Than Break-Up Price—End of Decline Forecast

Although one ship was sold at about fifteen shillings per gross ton at Kellock's auction at the Baltic, recently, lower than a breaking-up price, there was a great deal of enthusiasm displayed and the hall was crowded. "The deeper we get into the slump, the nearer we are to the time when conditions will improve," said Arthur Bateman, who put up five ships for sale by order of the Admiralty.

The steel shelter deck steamer General Church (British flag), of 3,177 tons gross, built in 1917 by Messrs. Duxford & Sons, Limited, Sunderland, had 14,000 spent on her last year. The first bid was $5,000 and this rose slowly to $17,500, at which figure she was bought by the European Shipping Company, of London.

The steel shelter deck steamer Maid of Pyra (British flag), of 4,792 tons gross, was built in 1922 by Messrs. Cammell, Laird & Co., Ltd., and was sold for $11,000. The steel shelter deck steamer Ziguara (Latvian flag), of about 3,468 tons gross, built in 1906 by Tyne Iron Shipbuilding Co., Ltd., Newcastle, started at $2,900 and was sold for $2,900 to a London owner. "With a price like this we must be right at the bottom of the slump, and the revival must be starting tomorrow," commented Mr. Bateman.

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

by Ely Culbertson

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

THE PRINCIPLE BEHIND THE HOLDUP

Most bridge players, whose skill has progressed beyond the elementary stage, realize the necessity of holding up the controlling card of a suit which, in the main, is held by their opponents.

This is especially true in cases where that controlling card is the Ace.

Even the average player, holding Ace and two small of a suit at a notrump declaration, will not play the Ace on the first round unless he can see enough tricks to make his contract in sight or unless the card led is such as to clearly mark the suit as one of not more than four cards and almost certainly evenly divided in the two adverse hands.

There are other types of holdups of controlling cards, however, of adverse suits that are not recognized nearly so quickly. These types include cases where the Declarer holds K x of a suit, which is chosen as the opening lead at notrump. Of course, if Third Hand plays the Ace on a lead of this kind, the Declarer's worries as to that suit are at an end. He still holds two stoppers and he can see a safe fortress can probably develop his own 1-2 cards into trick-takers.

However, if the Ace does not go up and the Dummy is void of strength in the suit, most players, in this situation, will reach yearningly for the unattainable and win the first trick of the suit with one of the honors, apparently blissfully oblivious of the fact that thereby they have left themselves defenceless in case their right hand opponent can get in for a second lead of the suit through the new weakly-guarded honor. Unless the Declarer can count enough tricks to make his contract, he should recognize his holding for just exactly what it is—one stopper in the adverse suit—and plan the play as the hand on exactly the same lines as though that stopper were the Ace with two small cards.

In a recent tournament I saw a hand which proved the undoing of many players, some of them of even considerable skill, because of failure to adhere to the principles outlined above.

When the partner of the Doubler expects to defeat the doubled contract by an appreciable amount, he should pass for a penalty rather than make a takeout. A penalty pass after partner has doubled one no trump is justified with as little as two honor tricks in the hand, especially if opponents are vulnerable.

A hand such as: Spades, J 10 7;

Hearts, A 8 4; diamonds, K 10 3, 2; and clubs, K 4, in conjunction with the three honor tricks shown by partner, will account for five out of eight or nine and a half. The opening no trump bidder holds at least 2½, and probably three honor tricks. It
